Error connecting Data Studio from Mac

Connection Error?

If you're trying to connect to SQL Server on your Mac, make sure your Mac has Docker running and you've started the SQL Server Docker container.

Here's how:

1. Open Docker just as you would open any other application (via the Launchpad, Applications folder, etc).
2. Once Docker is running, open your Terminal and start the Docker container. It should look something like this: `docker start Homer`

This starts a previously stopped container called Homer. You'll need to modify this command to suit your own container's name.
